That the general situation in the orient has so happily been preserved intact is due to the just and impartial views which your majesty has maintained in the councils of nations. Your majesty's fame as a just and humane soverages of the councils of the council of the counc ereign now extends far and wide; and, deeptouched by your majesty's benevolent attitude, we have commanded our envoy to present to your majesty in our name our sincere thanks. It only remains for us to express our earnest wish that your majesty, setting aside the displeasure which past events have occasioned, will be graciously disposed to draw closer and closer the bonds of friendship which unite the two countries; that the existing sentiments of mutual good will may be fostered more and more as time progresses; that tranquillity may henceforth reign over the earth; and that the blessings of peace and prosperity may descend upon our respective empires."

FOOD CURE.

RESULTS IN CHANGE OF DIET ARE WON-DERFUL.

"Good food, properly selected, will, in my opinion, cure almost any ordinary disease. I want to tell you my experience and of my recovery by the selection of the proper diet. I am a business woman, very closely confined indoors, with considerable care and anxiety. Some time ago I had a severe case of the grippe and after recovering from it had a serious time following, as many

"I was unable to get well until I changed my diet, leaving off Mocha and Java coffee and using the Postum Food Coffee in its place, and taking up Grape-Nuts breakfast food. This winter I have given both a fair and continued trial and the results are superb. I am restored to perfect health and strength, and, as you claim, I have a 'reserve force,' bodily and mentally, that carries me through many hard places.
"I cannot praise the food too much, for it will, if used steadily, cure all disturbances of the system caused by the congestions la grippe is answerable for. A dish that contains the most powerful rebuilding elements can be made as follows: Hot milk brought to a boil; break in two fresh eggs and as soon as the eggs set pour the boiling milk and eggs over some Grape-Nuts in a soup dish. No breakfast of meat can be so good.

"I use Grape-Nuts in this way every morning and have no sense of lack of food all day. I have kept well and remarkably free from colds all winter, which I attribute to a fine condition of health, brought about by the use of the famous food and of Potsum Food Coffee." (Grape-Nuts are perfectly cooked at factory and are usually served cold, with a little cream or milk.) Mrs. C. S. Woodward, 24 Grenada st., St. Augustine, Fla.

Upon the recommendation of Captain Beach, Engineer Commissioner, the District Commissioners have decided to refer to A. B. Duvall, the attorney for the Disa conference on the Balkan situation; a trict, the case of M. J. O'Brien, for the preparation of a notice to him to show cause why his license should not be revoked by the Commissioners on account of a failure to properly perform work as a registered plumber. The Commissioners have taken this action upon the receipt of complaints against O'Brien. Captain Beach, in his recommendation says that leniency on the part of the Commissioners in previous cases seems to have had no effect whatever on Mr. O'Brien.

The latest complaint received against O'Brien comes from Martha F. Judge who, March 29 last, it is alleged, paid the plumber $75 in advance for the performance of plumbing work at 2920 Brightwood avenue. At the present date, the inspector of plumbing reports, the work is still incomplete, and has never been reported for

ADVICE TO MANILA JUDGES

LETTER OF INSTRUCTIONS FROM

THE CIVIL GOVERNOR. Natives to Be Taught the Functions of a Court of Justice and Their Rights as Citizens.

As of interest in showing how closely the civil government of the Philippine Islands is safeguarding the liberties of the islanders along the lines of the late President's order to the Philippine commission the division of insular affairs of the War Department makes public the following extract of letter of instructions from the civil governor to the municipal judges recently appointed in Manila:

"As you enter upon your judicial duties as judges of the two municipal courts of the city, I venture to explain to you the purpose which the commission has had in providing two such judges for Manila. It has been said, and it is true, that in cities much larger than Manila in America one police judge has been able to discharge the duties which are now placed upon you, and it has been suggested that it is unnecessary and therefore lacking in economy to provide two judges here. The commission is very clear, however, that the suggestion is unfounded, and for these reasons:

"The dispatch of business in a police court in an American city is exceedingly, rapid; there is a constant procession before the court of vagrants, drunkards and petty, thieves with whose faces, names and his-tory the judge has become entirely familiar. The hearings are all in one language and there is therefore generally no neces-sity for interpretation. The judge's knowledge of the persons, and frequently of the witnesses, enables him to reach a correct conclusion in each case with wonderful ac-curacy and justice; but certainly as one sits in a police court in America and ob-serves the speed with which sentences or fines and imprisonments are imposed, he must think, if he does not know the circumstances I have explained, that there may be many cases in which gross injustice is done under such a procedure. The military emergencies seemed to have required a similar procedure in the provost courts of this city, but now that civil government is established and the course of justice need not be so hastened as to involve the risk of injustice, a different course is entirely possible.
"The judges of the municipal courts are those officers who come closer than any other officers, not only to the criminal classes, but also to the poor and humble, and it is from their administration of the

and it is from their administration of the law that the poor and lowly derive their impressions of the character of justice which the government is administering. Therefore it is much more important in municipal courts than in any other courts that every man who is charged with an effects a hefore them should not entirely the courts. fense before them should not only have justice dealt to him, but also should receive the impression that he is being dealt justly with. To accomplish both these ends time must be taken to look into the merits of each case, the defendant must be given an opportunity to have counsel if he desires it and to have his witnesses called if he knows of any that can support the defense.

"Many of the offenses which will be brought before your courts are more violations of municipal ordinances or of health regulations. It is quite possible that the people who are brought before you for a first offense may not know or understand what the regulations or ordinances are, and it is most essential that the trial should bring clearly before their minds that they are in a court of justice; that they are being tried for an offense against the law, and exactly what that offense is. Such cases call for a paternal elemency, until by repetition of the offenses it is demonstrated that the offenders are intentional lawbreakers, Of course, you will have not a few instances of hardened criminals, to whom must be meted out severe penalties; but the greater number of defendants who is being done, and will feel it a part of their formal duty to acquiesce in the charges instead of meeting them by a denial supported by witnesses. They be taught by the course of justice in your courts what their rights as defendants are "The possibility that interested persons municipal courts institutions which the humbler classes shall not regard with fear and as mere instruments for punishing all who are brought before them. You should make them tribunals which the people will look upon as protectors against the possible fraud, malice or overzeal of prosecutors on the one hand, and as vindicators of the law and of peace and good order on the other "To secure for your courts in the minds of the people this double character you must regulate your procedure so as to have may have intimidated or terrorized defendants into non-resistance to the charges is one that the experience of the last two or three years requires the judges to have constantly in mind. You should make the

a full hearing of every case, and this will take all the time of two judges, especially, when everything that is said in court, be-cause of the varieties of language spoken, must be interpreted."
